

Tomoka State Park

FOR SALE
BUT NOT BY OWNER

Political advertisement paid for and approved by Joyce Cusack, Democrat, for State Representative, District 27

Joyce Cusack is Not For Sale.

Six years ago, you first gave me the honor of serving you in the Florida legislature. Since then, I have worked to keep your trust.

My only special interests are the residents of Volusia County and the State of Florida.

Please give me your vote Nov. 7 so I can continue to be your voice in Tallahassee.

Promises Made, Promises *Kept

If David Hood had his way, your state park would be for sale and the $17 million net-worth developer, lawyer, and bar owner would be that much richer.

When David Hood was mayor of Ormond Beach, he voted to allow construction in a 76-acre, unspoiled enclave in Tomoka State Park.

When David Hood was mayor of Ormond Beach, he approved new developments while working with real estate speculators as a private investor.

When David Hood was mayor of Ormond Beach, he disbanded the city commission's environmental protection advisory board.

When David Hood was mayor of Ormond Beach, he said city firefighters on 24-hour shifts only have about four hours of "real work."

When David Hood was mayor of Ormond Beach, he voted against a firefighter pay raise. Later that same year the state burned with wildfire and CNN termed Flagler and Volusia counties "flashpoints."

What did David Hood do after he was mayor of Ormond Beach?
He moved to Daytona.

Maybe the rules don't apply to him.

David Hood — a member of the Florida Bar sworn to uphold the law — has been given 13 traffic citations over the last 15 years, ranging from speeding to failure to obey traffic control devices to driving with an expired registration. He pled guilty in every case.

"You again, Mr. Hood?"
