

They're already talking about Linda Myers ...and it's all good!

“[Myers] is certain that her CPA background has made her a more effective public servant. ‘So much of government is understanding where the money’s coming from and the effective use of money as it’s spent,’ said Myers...”

“...Myers brought what is now a Dunkin’ Donuts franchise to Palatka. But while the business succeeded, Myers’ first husband succumbed to a long illness in 1989. Suddenly a single mother of two, Myers began taking business classes at the local junior college, where she discovered she had an affinity for numbers and their connection to business. She hired management for the doughnut shop in 1990 and returned to UF full-time, earning a bachelor’s and a master’s degree in accounting. Myers passed the CPA exam on the first try, and now acts as a ‘traveling CFO’ for several small businesses. She also works with her husband Vernon Myers, a [retired] community banker...

Among her priorities are economic development, affordable health care, honoring trust funds and protecting Florida’s small businesses from overregulation. Above all, she said, the Legislature must take a comprehensive look at the way it funds services at the state and local level, and resist ‘quick fixes.’”

They're already talking about Linda Myers ...and it's all good!

“The thing about term limits, it gets the good with the bad...However, out of every dark cloud there sometimes peeps a little ray of sunshine. Putnam County has an excellent candidate who hopes to step into [Rep. Joe] Pickens’ shoes. Linda Myers, who has served well and long as one of our county commissioners, has announced her candidacy for the job.

We Putnamites have a few years of knowledge of Linda’s ability. In her position as chairwoman of the county commission, she already has had a lot of dealings with Tallahassee, and has prepared herself otherwise by serving on state boards.”
